THE CAPTIVE CHRISTIAN MOORE

Upon the 19th March, 1867, the writer was privileged, through the kindness of the Rev. Mr. Anderson, to visit an individual who, of all others, possesses historic interest. About half a mile north of the Indian Chruch upon the old York road, Tyendinaga, lives Christian Moore. Beside the Stove, in a low Indian chair, sat a woman whose shrunken and bent appearance made her appear no larger than a girl of sixteen. But the face, with its parchment-like skin — the deeply wrinkled features, bespoke the burden of many winters. Yet, the eye still flashed looks of intelligence, as the face was upturned from her hands on which she almost incessantly rested her head, as if the shoulders had wearied in their long life duty. Christian is about a hundred years old, during eighty of which she has remained a captive with the Mohawks. Although a white woman, she knows not a word of English. Long, long years ago, in becoming the wife of an Indian, and the mother of Indians, she became to all purposes one of themselves. She is a living relic of the American Revolution, as well as of the customs of the Mohawk Indians a hundred years ago.

In the first days of the rebellion, in an encounter between the Indians and a party of rebels in the Mohawk valley, one of the Indians, by the name of Green, was killed. The custom among the several tribes, or families, when one of their number had been lost in war, was to take the first captive they could, and adopt him or her, into the tribe, to keep up the number. A party of Indians, under John Green, a chief and brother of the one killed, called in after days Captain Green, in the course of their foray, caught a little girl about ten years of age. That little girl is the old person of whom we are speaking. The old woman yet recollects the fact that her father's family, on the approach of the Indians, made haste to escape; she by accident was left along or behind. She remembers to have been running along the road, when she was taken. She says there were a good many Indians. After this there is a blank in her memory, until the period of the Indians leaving their homes to escape. This was the time when they buried their Communion Plate. Christian says she was carried upon an Indian's back, as they fled to Lachine. She recollects that they were staying three years at Lachine, when the tribe set out to take possession of the land which Government was to give them. It was about a year from the time they started from Lachine, until they, under Brant, reached their destination, the Frand River. Captain Green was with this party, and stayed with them at Grand River for six years, when, becoming dissatisfied, he, with his family, came to the Bay Quinte. Christian remembers all this. She was living with Captain Green's sister. They came in a batteau, down the north shore of the lake, and crossed at the Carrying Place at the head of the bay.

Christian in time became the wife of an Indian, by the name of Anthony Smart, who, she says, has been dead now thirty-eight years. They had but one child, a daughter, who was married to Abram Maricle. They had three children, one being a son. Christian's daughter has been dead many years, but the old lady now is surrounded by grand-children to the third generation.

Some time after the close of the Revolution, a person by the name of Moore, came with his family to Canada, and settled at Napanee. By some means he learned that there was a white woman among the Mohawks, and he visited them to see if it might be his long lost daughter. Such proved to be the case. He was Christian's father. She remembers the occasion, (it was about forty-five years ago,) her father was then a very old man. Of course, there was no resemblance between the woman in Indian garb before him, and his little girl of ten years. But there was a mark upon her arm, the result of a burn by which he was enabled to recognize his own flesh and blood. The scar, upon the left fore-arm, can yet be distinctly seen. Painful, indeed, must have been the feelings of the parent, to know she was his daughter, and yet knew not a syllable of her mother tongue. The natural channel by which parental and filial affection might have flowed was sealed. She says, she has a sister now living back of Napanee. She asked her father if she had been christened, and he informed her she had been. Upon our asking her the question, if she ever went to school, she says, "No;" that she was "always working hard." Asking her the question, if she did not think she had lived a long while, she replied, "I don't think I'll live very long." The Rev. Mr. Anderson informs us that she has ever maintained the character of a true Christian, and is always happy to partake of the Holy Communion, Christian's great-grandson, himself a father, acted as interpreter.

Green 3

It is possible that this woman, who belonged to another century, may live yet several years. There is much of vigor in her movements and conversation. Although shrivelled and bent almost double with age, her body seems to be well nourished, and her arms possess considerable thickness. She always enjoyed good health, and now eats and sleeps in the most comfortable manner.

We are informed by a recent letter from Rev. Mr. Anderson, 1869, that the old woman continues quite well, and works in the garden in summer.

Records of Adolphustown Town Meetings.

Personal Notes.

William Moore.

William Moore was one of the pioneers, and is put down in the Government list as a "foreman or overseer of Works, Engineer's Department." He had lived in the third concession. He was a carpenter, and is said to have finished the old Adolphustown Methodist Church, and to have built the Methodist Church at Congers, near Picton, which is now the oldest of its kind in use in Ontario. It was built in 1809. He was class leader of the first class organized in Adolphustown in 1791, and was referred to by the old members as a "Father in Israel." A daughter married John Roblin, so much noted among the early residents--the father of David Roblin, M. P., Rev. Philip Roblin, Mrs. George H. Detlor, of Napanee, and others. Wm. Moore does not appear to have had any sons, but there are numerous descendants through the daughter. He died at his farm, and was buried in the burying ground at the old Methodist Church on Hay Bay. He never appears to have taken much part in municipal or political affairs.

Document 2: Declaration of Independence

1776, July 4

United States

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. — That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, — That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, in such a case, dictates that慎重 should be exercised; and that no step should be taken which is likely to be followed by the most dangerous and bloody consequences, without exploring every possible remedy, before a final resort to the sword of independence.

FLASHBACK

WILLIAM MOORE WAS FIRST SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER....1791

A pioneer resident of Adolphustown Township was William Moore, who is recorded on the Government list of the last century as a "foreman or overseer of works, engineer's department."

A. C. Davis, township clerk and himself a member of a well - known United Empire Loyalist family of the township, has a personal collection of notes on the Ontario Bureau of Industries, compiled by the secretary, C. C. James, and printed in Toronto on July 3, 1899, which reports that Mr. Moore lived on Lot 23 of the third concession of the township.

He was an excellent carpenter and is said to have finished the old Hay Bay Methodist Church, first in Upper Canada, and to have built the Methodist Church at Congers, known as "Conger's Chapel," near Picton, which is now one of the oldest of its

Mr. Moore was class leader pear to have had any sons but there are numerous descendants through his daughter. He died at his farm and was

He never appears to have

Influenza Prevalent In County In April

During April influenza was quite prevalent throughout Lennox and Addington County.
In many cases, relapses occurred when patients returned to their ordinary activities too soon. It is always wise to remain in bed as long as there is any fever, and to stay away from any strenuous activities until complete recovery, warns the medical officer of health in charge of the county health unit, Dr. J. I. Jeffs.

Physical examinations were
at the schools. Those examined were children who started school last September, and those in Grade 9 who had not been examined by their family physician.

Heart murmurs are occasionally heard during the physical examination of school children. An interesting and helpful symposium on heart murmurs at Queen's University, Kingston, was attended in April.

Adult polio clinics for those who have not had the vaccine as yet will be held in May and June for Napanee district. Other clinics will be arranged later.

News Notes

Work of Alcoholics Anonymous Outlined to Gananoque Club

GANANOQUE — A member of Alcoholics Anonymous told the Rotary Club yesterday that, although alcoholism is recognized as an "incurable, progressive disease" by the medical profession, it can be "arrested through adherence to the principles set up by AA."

AA was described as "a fellowship which exists for the sole purpose of helping the alcoholic who wishes to stop drinking." The speaker said, however, that "sobriety in itself is simply a means to an end—the removal of those character defects which have allowed the sufferer to become an alcoholic."

"There are no fees or dues, no membership or pledge cards, and the only requirement for membership is that the alcoholic sincerely wishes to stop drinking," he said. "The fellowship has no political or religious beliefs, does not indulge in 'tavern smashing' or temperance reformation, is not a cure or a cure-all, does not accept or collect funds from outside sources, and has no officers or paid social workers."

"We do not 'sell' Alcoholics Anonymous. We give it away."

The AA movement, started in the United States some 17 years ago, today claims a membership of about 250,000.

The speaker, offering the information that he had been drinking for 30 years—of which the past had been "pretty rough"—told the club how he had joined AA after "reaching the gutter for the time."

Noting the several strata which one finds alcoholics, he referred to the "high level gutter" where the problem drinker probably has a good job and is financially well fixed but still is a slave to alcohol and its effects.

"Another type reaches the bottom level of humanity, buries his meals and drinks, sleeping pills, or just finding himself with the innumerable jobs to do and either quitting or being fired. When the bottom is reached, the individual has become desperate, is when he may be led to undertake the first of the "Twelve Steps," the primary means of which AA brings the alcoholic back to sobriety."

The first, and most important step is that the individual acknowledge that he is a slave over alcohol and that he has become unmanageable. The speaker said, "From the experience of thousands of men, it is led to a conclusion that which is a serious and
